School Building Plans May Stop: Bonds Not Sold

The building program of the board of education is expected to be brought to a standatill unless local financial institutions come to their aid in buying part of the $250,000 bond issue for building purposes. Replying to a letter from G. W. Garner, secretary of the board, a St. Louis bank refused to purchase bonds bearing only five and one-half per cent that can not be sold at par. They also are of the opinion that no other bond house in the country will accept the proposition on those terms. These facts were brought out at the regular meeting of the board Monday night. However, Mr. Garner said he was still in hopes of getting a favorable reply to letters sent to different parts of the country in regard to the bond issue.

Contrary to expectations, no report of bond issue.

Contrary to expectations, no report of figures on the increase in public school teachers' salary was made by auditors. It is expected that they will be heard from within the next few days.

Prof. Wharton S. Jones, superintendent, in his monthly report gave the total enrollment in Memphis public schools as 25,916, an increase of 200 over last month's enrollment, and 3,792 more pupils than for the same month last year. The pupils are divided:

White schools, boys $2,298, girls 8,- white schools, boys $,298, girls $,359; total 16,657. Negro schools, hoys 4,102 girls 5,157; total 9,259. Total number of hoys, 12,400; total number of girls, 15,516. Central high school alone last month showed an enrollment of 1,568, while a report from Prof. J. L. Highsaw, principal of Vocational high school, showed that more than 200 pupils were enrolled in the regular classes with more than 1,000 attending special classes at night.

Mullins for the past four years, enjoyed the largest attendance this year than ever before.

Amusements

Orpheum.

There is a pepperty little bit of feminity at the Orpheum for the first half of the week who is bubbling personality itself. She is Elsie Scuyler. This little lady fairly radiates sunghine, casts a wholesome charm across the footinghts and otherwise makes herself useful in a quiet, refined sort of way. It is a rollicking, singing act about clothes. She makes five changes and disports a nifty wardrobe. The toe dancer with Miss Schuyler does a number that pleases.

Miss Schuyler does a number that pleases.

"Magic Glasses" is billed as head-liner. Norsdiron is given as the author. The whole savors of the draimatic school. It is an allegory of no unusual type given by an acceptable cast. Elise Plicer and Dudley Douglas dance. Miss Plicer between steps brings out some stunning gowns and dainty dresses. Douglas chatters away at one or two new songs and one or two that are not so up-to-date.

Arch Hendricks and George Stonspill a lot of stuff about liquor that makes one thirsty, especially when they bring on that bottle. Barthold is birds flutter and squawk, but get by with some interesting tricks.

"A Fool and His Money," with Eugene O'Brien in the lead, is the feature film. Monday night brought a flock of the O'Brien clientele who found this favorite in a role well suited for his particular style.

Loew's Lyceum.

Unlike most vaudeville combinations composed of song writers. Billy Tracey and Halsey Mohr, joint headliners at Loew's Lyceum for the first half of the week, have good voices, a neat assortment of verse Jokes and gags, while Mohr can manipulate the ivories in best of fashion. There are several new numbers in the repertoire they now are using which are unique and give much promise. The most attractive is a "Jailhouse Blues" piece. In addition, these boys have a medley of their own songs, bringing in "Mammy o Mine." Liberty Bell. "Wonderful Pal," and one or two others.

Tuesday night Tracey and Mohr will conduct an amateur song writers" con-conduct an amateur song writers' contest. Every Memphis song writer habeen invited to enter. Manager Belin Stainback announced early in the weethat a season pass will be issued the winner, who will be adjudged by the Bacter song writers.

Moving Pictures

Strand.

Lovely Norma Talmadge has become old; her cheeks have fallen, her eyesight has falled, and her hair has become thin and gray. But the change is only temporary. At the same time Miss Talmadge, whose screen proclivities in the past have been along the lines of winning the love of gentlemen of immaulate dress, has laid aside her gorgeous robes, for the moment, to become a bobbed-haired, temperamental Greenwich village genius. All this takes place in her newest picture, "She Loves and Lies," at the Strand all week.

Majestic.

The showing of "The Cost," the picturization of Eavid Graham Phillips novel of the same name, at the Majestic theater this week, recalls the tragic circumstances under which this gifted young author met his untimely end Mr. Phillips was shot upon a crowded thoroughfare in New York city by a man who suffered under the hallucination that he was being written up in an unfavorable mainer in one of the author's novels. thor's novels.

THE PURITAN

Sir Walter Scott, when a boy, once expressed his enjoyment of a bowl of soup.

Whereupon, his Puritan father promptly mixed with it a pint of water to take out the devil.

What a shock the elder Scott would receive, could he visit the CHILDS restaurants today.

For he would find thousands complacently enjoying the delicious flavor of the soup.
